

Panels with style

ORAC Decor celebrates its 30th birthday with the new PX147 wall panel for a unique panelled look

This is a festive year for home decoration specialist, ORAC. The successful ORAC Decor collection is 30 years old today and this will be celebrated with new company compounds and shortly a brand new showroom. First, however, it will be marked by several new and innovative products, such as a new flat wall panel, the PX147, perfect for providing stylish panelling in your home.

After the streamlined Myline collection – decorative panels for fans of clean lines and pure beauty – ORAC is now introducing the flat wall panel PX147. These vertical panels can be assembled like laminate to form a stylish wall feature, add a new dimension to the trend of 'wallscaping', which allows you to add structure, depth and dynamism to a plain wall.

Panelling makes it possible to break the monotony of a plain wall and to experiment with colour in style. Panelling also provides the perfect transition solution for floors and skirting boards with patterns or painted walls.

The flat wall panel is part of ORAC's Axxent range and is made of high quality polymer that is easy to install and renowned for its long-lasting qualities. Unlike plaster, this light plastic is not breakable and unlike wood, it can be painted over immediately because a layer of primer has already been applied. The panels are also dimensionally stable, chip-proof and water resistant.

The Belgian family business ORAC Corporation nv, established in 1970, is recognized today as the foremost producer of decorative, high-quality plastic products. This wide range also includes decorations such as rosettes, pilasters, columns, plinths, alcoves, medallions, garlands, pediments, window sills, panels and decorative lighting. In short, it has everything you need to give your house a new look in no time at all.
